

Final Presentation Guidelines (15%)

Select a topic of your choice and with a group (3-4 students) prepare a research presentation using the Rogerian Model of argument (chapter 5 of the textbook) that is 15-20 minutes in length. You may use the same topic for your final essay if you like although this is not required. This project is a group assignment where you will be marked collectively and will take place from Weeks 11-13. On the day of your presentation you will also evaluate two (2) other groups as part of your grade. Your presentation must include the following:

Content:

- An introduction with a shared problem, illustration of that problem and possible solution
 - What is agreed upon including evidence/appeals
 - Where you differ with an examination of any opposition/alternatives that exist for you topic
 - Your own drawbacks/weaknesses plus why they are not too significant
 - A conclusion with a compromise

Formatting:

- Can be slides if you like
 - No papers allowed
 - An Audio/visual aid must be incorporated into the presentation
 - A minimum of six (6) in-slide/presentation citations from at least four (4) different sources (APA or MLA style)

Critical Response:

- Evaluate two (2) groups on the day of your presentation
- Evaluate content, format & style
- You must ask questions as part of your critical response
